Natalie's sister Lana finally confronted her former brother-in-law about her sister's mysterious death

NATALIE WOOD MURDER BOMBSHELL!

RAGING Robert Wagner confessed to killing his wife Natalie Wood during an explosive confrontation with his former sister-in-law Lana Wood!

That's the shocking claim of a world-famous body language consultant AND a noted voice stress expert who

Robert Wagner confesses during showdown with slain beauty's sis

"You have accused me of murdering her!" Wagner shouted after Natalie's only surviving sibling tracked him down at a public event and demanded he FINALLY answer police questions about the Nov. 29, 1981 tragedy.

"Why won't you speak to the detectives?" asked Lana, who was fighting back tears

BRADY BUNCH MOM IS A SEX MACHINE!

MAN-EATING “Brady Bunch” mom Florence Henderson boasts sex gets steamier with age — and at 82 she has more than one friend with benefits!

“I still feel like I’m 28,” says the sassy actress, who played Carol Brady on the sitcom from 1969 to 1974. “It’s foolish to think older people don’t enjoy sex. There’s no age limit. It keeps getting better!”

“No matter how old you are — and I’m pretty up there in terms of numbers — you should do whatever makes you happy. As long as you’re not hurting yourself or anybody else, I say do it!”

The twice-married mother of four — who performed on ABC’s “Dancing with the Stars” in 2010 at age 76 — confesses her first marriage to producer Ira Bernstein collapsed because of her raging sex drive.

“I’m wild about sex!” she admits. “Every night I’d ask for sex but he was tired and said, ‘No.’ We had four kids so people assumed we had a healthy sex life. But I used to joke we only had sex those four times!”

Florence even revealed in her book, “Life is Not a Stage,” she was so lonely, she cheated on her sex-shy husband with handsome former New York Mayor John Lindsay — and caught a sexually transmitted disease! The marriage ended in 1985 after 29 years.

Her second husband, hypnotherapist John Kappas, proudly admitted he was married to a love machine.

“If she had her way, I’d never get out of bed,” he quipped before dying of cancer in 2002 at age 77.

Florence credits her fitness regime with giving her stamina in the sack. However, she vows not to wed again, preferring to date — often “toyboys” in their 60s.

“I like to date younger men because they need to keep up with me,” she says.

Last year, she identified one of her “friends with benefits” as a chiropractor living in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

“I really enjoy his company but I am sure he sees other people, as I do,” she says.

She has one rule — any “friend with benefits” must make her laugh.

“If he doesn’t have a sense of humor, I’m going home very early.”

“Dancing with the Stars” Cory Ballas gave frolicking Florence a spin in 2010 when she was 76!

and demanding justice for her sister.

Wagner barked in response: “Lana, why would you even bring up anything like that?”

Then Wagner melted down.

“You have accused me!” he blurted out. “You have accused me of murdering her!”

In a sensational world exclusive, the 86-year-old former leading man’s bizarre behavior at a Hyatt Regency hotel was caught on camera by GLOBE!

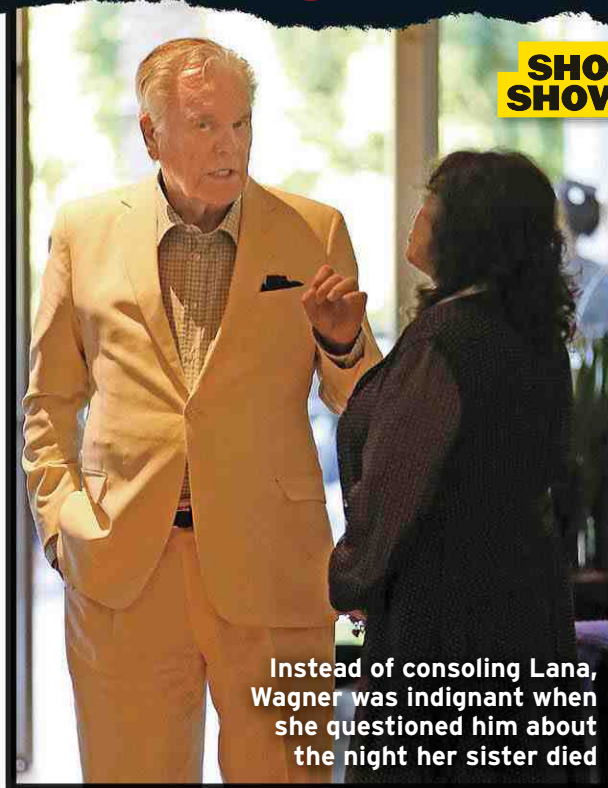

Lana, 69, faced off with the former “Hart to Hart” TV hunk as he sported a dapper white suit for a luncheon honoring his current wife, Jill St. John.

Natalie’s kid sister told GLOBE she was devastated when she learned Wagner refused to cooperate with the Los Angeles County Sheriff’s Department detectives investigating the case, which officially re-opened in November 2011.

The stunning star of “West Side Story” was 43 when she died off California’s Catalina Island. She and Wagner had been entertaining her “Brainstorm” co-star Christopher Walken aboard their yacht, “Splendour,” in the hours before her death.

Originally, Natalie’s passing was ruled an “accidental drowning.”

But in 2012 Natalie’s autopsy report was changed — and her cause of death was ruled “drowning and other undetermined factors” after strange bruises were found

Instead of consoling Lana, Wagner was indignant when she questioned him about the night her sister died on her body.

Splendour captain Dennis Davern has long claimed foul play was involved in Natalie’s death.

Passing a police polygraph, he directly implicated Wagner, saying the jealous actor had a violent fight with Natalie before she vanished. He also claimed Wagner delayed the search to find her for SEVERAL HOURS!

And GLOBE recently reported Walken has given investigators damning testimony about that fatal night.

L.A. County Sheriff’s homicide division Lt. John Corina, who is heading the new probe, says Wagner is being uncooperative because “he probably feels like we’re looking at him as a suspect.”

Lawmen HAVE identified Wagner as a person of interest, but the “Prince Valiant” stud has always insisted he did not kill his wife or play any role in her death.

Devoted sister

However, Lana, who played “Plenty O’Toole” in the 1971 James Bond film, “Diamonds Are Forever,” wasn’t satisfied. She penned an open letter to the Los Angeles District Attorney’s Office begging them to press charges against Wagner. But she never got a response.

As a result, Lana says she had no other choice than to confront him herself.

“I want justice for my sister before I die,” she told GLOBE.

During their faceoff, Wagner incredibly tried to “shame”

Lana by asking her why she would even dare to ask him about Natalie’s death.

“I have talked to everybody,” he said. “It’s incredible. I can’t believe that you would do something like that. I just can’t believe it.”

Lana then tried again, begging him to tell her what happened that night.

“I have stopped and said (to you) what happened,” Wagner snapped before he walked away in disgust without even consoling her.

GLOBE showed a video of the confrontation to body language expert Susan Constantine, who says Wagner’s actions and words were deceptive and riddled with guilt.

“The fact that he doesn’t answer the questions is a signal

TRUTH FOR 34 YEARS!

he's concealing information," says Constantine, who is forensically trained at detecting lies.

She also noticed how Wagner referred to Natalie as "her" when he complained about being accused of "murdering her."

"In all of my investigative training, what we have found is that when a person has murdered their spouse or child they will often call them 'her or him' — they don't name them by their name, as if to distance themselves from the person," Constantine reveals.

Wagner's lawyer, Blair Berk, has previously said he has "fully cooperated" with police and that he's vehemently denied any wrongdoing.

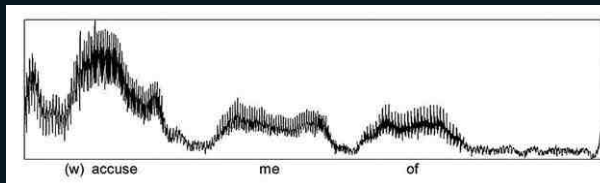

A law enforcement source tells GLOBE: "When police get hold of this, Lana may finally get her wish — which is to see him arrested so he'll be forced to answer questions once and for all!"

VOICE STRESS TEST PROVES HE'S LYING

"... Accused me of ..."

GLOBE took the extraordinary step of having Robert Wagner's statements to Lana Wood examined by Michael Sylvestre, a renowned voice stress analyst who claims the aging actor was not telling the truth!

"... murdering her"

As the chart shows, "when he happened to mention 'murder' he was highly agitated — there was quite a bit of stress in his voice," Sylvestre says.

"He is being deceptive on that statement because he knows why she is accusing him. She wants that answer and he is not giving it to her! He knows why he is being accused. It's a possibility that he is expressing some form of guilt."

DR. DEMENTO!

Dentist chased out of town over charges he tortured kids

A SADISTIC Florida dentist preyed on “utterly defenseless” children to feed his twisted lust that could only be sated by their screams!

That’s the horrifying charge made against Dr. Howard Schneider, who is accused in a shocking lawsuit of running his pediatric dental clinic in Jacksonville, Fla., as a personal “house of horrors.”

In legal papers that seem ripped right from the script of “Marathon Man” — a chilling thriller starring Laurence Olivier as a sadistic Nazi dentist — Schneider is branded a fiend with “a deep need” to “inflict pain, torture, mutilate and humiliate” the kids he strapped down in his chair.

The monster choked children into unconsciousness

Dr. Howard Schneider (left) is attacked by a furious mom (above). Jacksonville, Fla. residents picketed his clinic (right) rather than using anesthetic, according to the documents. He also performed “non-medical procedures” on the youngsters and threatened to kill their mothers if they revealed his sick actions, the lawsuit charges.

Schneider, 78, is currently facing trial for a $100,000 Medicaid scam.

And although he pleaded not guilty, he was forced to close his practice after local residents picketed it in protest. He has also forfeited his dental license and moved to Georgia.

The lawsuit, which relies on testimony from patients, parents and former employees, accuses the dentist of being a “pathological sadist” who suffers from “psychosexual disorder,” which resulted in his arousal from inflicting pain.

The suit called his dental practice nothing more than a “sadistic and systemic scheme of physical and psychological torture and abuse.”

According to court papers, one mother claimed Schneider pulled four of her 2-year-old’s baby teeth rather than the two agreed upon and left her son bloody, bruised and “cut on the bottom front outer gum line from ear to ear.”

Another parent claims she was initially told a procedure would take 30 minutes. Three hours later, she found her kid bloody, hyperventilating, and full of scratches.

Dr. Schneider’s accusers claim he evaded detection by preying on the poor, although since 2001 the Jacksonville Sheriff’s Office was called twice to his clinic after complaints of excessive force.

Queen exiles Fergie & CAMILLA IS NEXT!

SCANDAL-SCARRED Sarah Ferguson, the disgraced Duchess of York, has been exiled by Queen Elizabeth!

And palace insiders warn Prince Charles' evil wife, Camilla, is next!

"Her Majesty is hell-bent on cleaning her royal house and burying the scandals that have plagued the family for the last 25 years," says a palace insider.

"She wants a clean slate for Prince William and Kate when they take over the Throne.

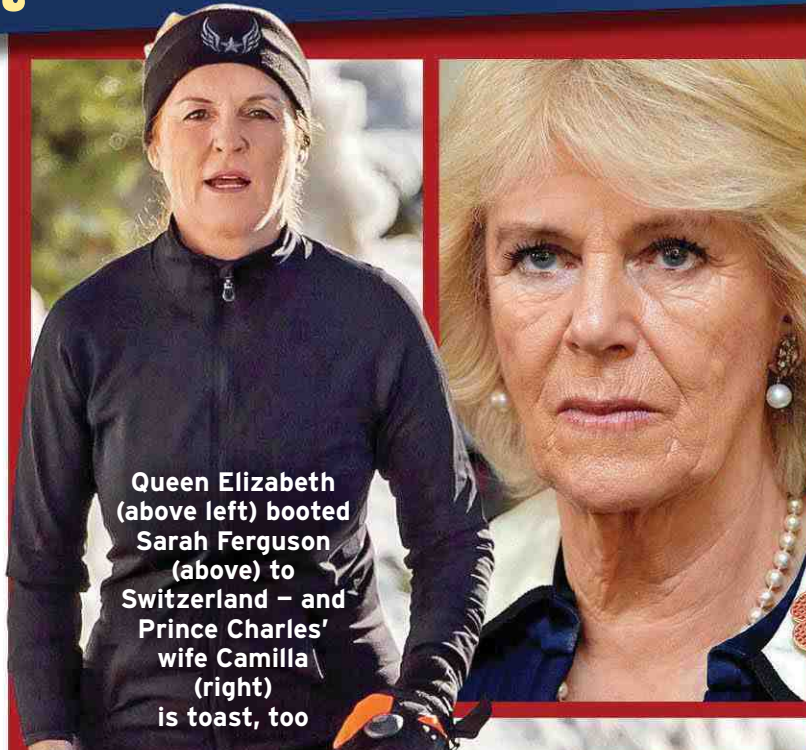

"Fergie has heaped disgrace on the royal family almost from the day she married Prince Andrew in 1986. She is the first to go — but Camilla should start packing. The ax is about to fall on her, too."

Fergie, 56, who's been living under her ex-husband's roof at Royal Lodge for nearly nine years, has been forced to move out — and quit Britain!

She's now hunkered down in the Swiss ski resort of Verbier. And she has applied for permanent resident status.

Sally's not interested in Burt's overtures

SALLY DYING

He broke her heart 33 years

FRAIL and fragile Burt Reynolds wept bitter tears when his former love Sally Field refused to attend what he fears will be his last birthday bash.

Still bitter over the way Burt dumped her in 1981 following a five-year affair, Sally, 69, got her revenge on the dying “Smokey and the Bandit” legend by snubbing the invite to his 80th birthday parties near his Jupiter, Fla., home, insiders say.

“Burt broke down in tears and collapsed when he got word Sally would be a no-show,” says a source.

“He’s an emotional mess and teetering on the verge of a complete breakdown.”

The former action star, who repeatedly asked Sally to marry him, was hoping to make amends with the Oscar-winning “Norma Rae” beauty he calls “the love of his life.” But Sally is done with him — and friends suggest she hates his guts.

Officially, the actress’ spokesperson told GLOBE, Sally had no plans to attend Burt’s party and “any m e s - sage she were to send would be strictly private.”

But the source insists, “Hell will freeze over before Sally forgives and forgets. She will never let Burt off the hook for stomping on her heart. She’s washed her hands of Burt.

“There’s no love lost on Sally’s part. She chose the vindictive path by rejecting Burt’s invite to celebrate what he believes will be his last birthday.”

Once Hollywood’s golden couple, Burt and Sally dated from 1976 to 1981 when she played his love interest in “Bandit.” During their steamy romance, they starred in six movies together — but the affair was always rocky.

Sally was hurt when Burt delayed popping the big question — and when he FINALLY did, she turned him down!

Love of his Life

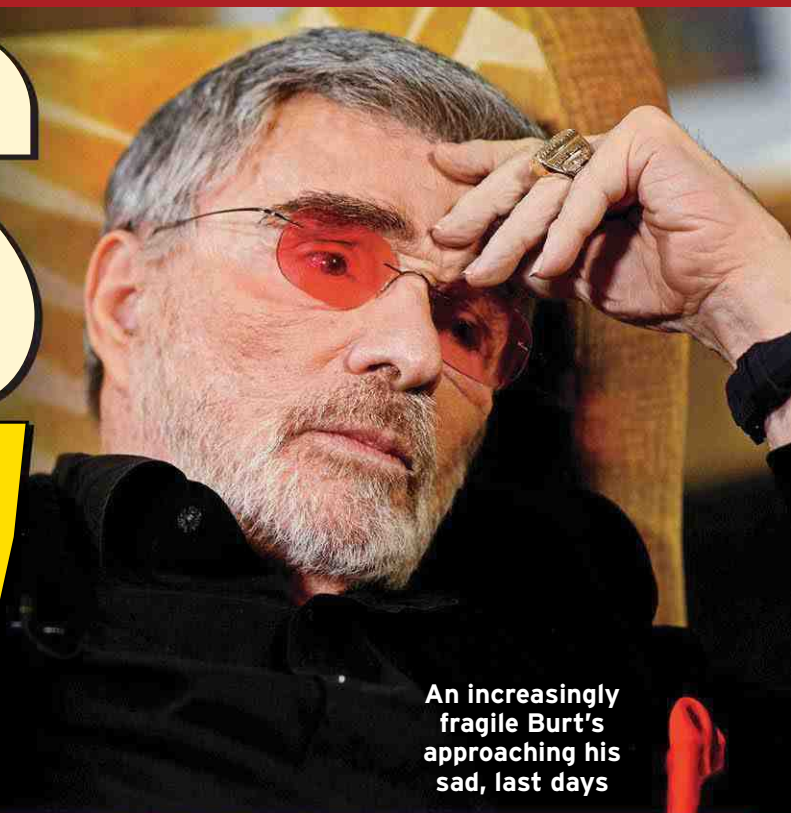

After their bitter bust-up, Sally married second husband Alan Greisman in 1984. Burt wed blonde bombshell Loni Anderson in 1988. Both their marriages went bust in 1993.

Heartbroken Burt later confessed Sally was the “love of his life.”

"I miss her terribly," he says. "Even now, it's hard on me. I don't know why I was so stupid. Men are like that, you know. You find the perfect person, and then you do everything you can to screw it up."

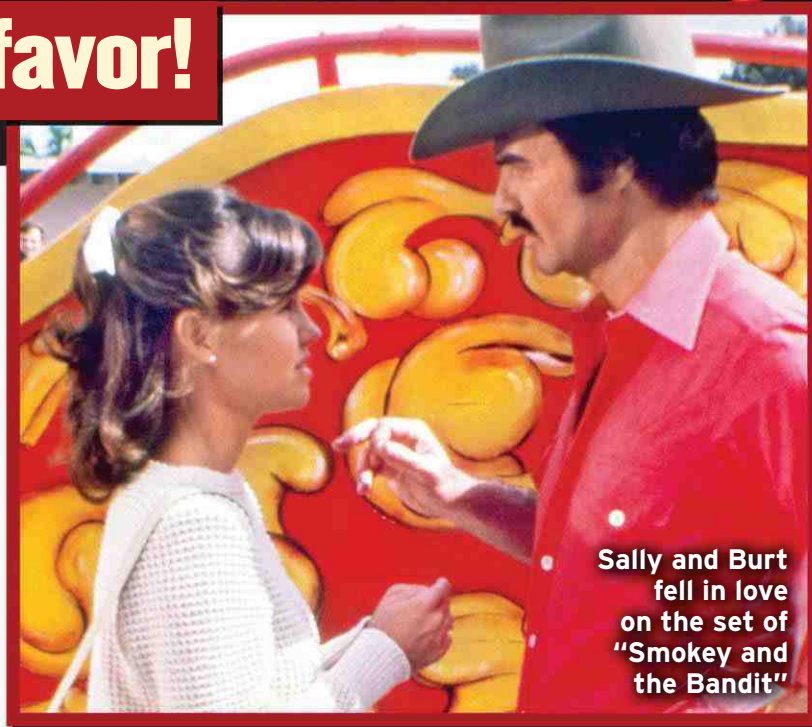

He was hoping to mend fences at his birthday bashes, the source says. One shindig was a casual dinner party with a Western theme for about four dozen friends. The other included his students from the Burt Reynolds Institute for Film and Theatre in Jupiter.

The former high school and college football star believes this was his last birthday, insiders say.

As GLOBE previously reported, the once-strapping 5-foot-11, 175-pound Burt has withered to a skeletal 98 pounds, his body ravaged by heart disease that required a quintuple bypass surgery, pain pill addiction and the stress of seeing his finances ruined by divorce.

An insider believes Sally

Sally and Burt fell in love on the set of "Smokey and the Bandit" may have stayed away because of Burt's current girlfriend, Rhonda Stearns, a local Florida gal.

But sources say Sally is always on his mind.

"Burt is a broken man and some days he can barely pull himself out of bed. Sometimes in his sleep he calls out Sally's name," the source says.

"Without Sally in his life, Burt sees little reason to keep fighting. He's lonely and consumed with regret about how badly he treated Sally."

BORDER FENCE

SUPER-PATRIOT Donald Trump's plan to protect America has exposed Pope Francis as a naïve pawn unaware of the damage caused by the flood of illegal immigration!

The front-running Republican presidential candidate trumped the clueless pontiff on vital American security — and defended himself from an attack on his faith!

Pope Francis suggested Trump "is not Christian" because of his campaign promise to deport more immigrants and force

When asked about Trump after completing a visit to Mexico, the head of the Catholic Church said, "A person who thinks only about building walls, wherever they may be, and not building bridges, is not Christian."

"The Pope was being hypocritical there," says the political insider. "He forgot that his own country, Vatican City, is completely surrounded by a wall!"

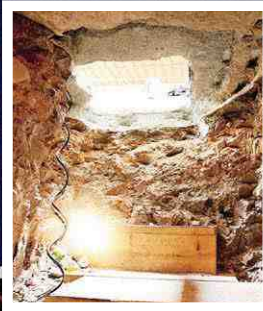

Trump shot back that it was the Pope who was out of line for questioning his security-first policy — and his faith in God.

SHE's on a slew of awards' slates and on every red carpet, but who IS Alicia Vikander? Well, it turns out that the 27-year-old beauty is a machine, a model, a daredevil and a dancer! Here are 10 things you didn't know about the Golden Globe and Oscar-nominated actress taking Hollywood – and one brooding hottie – by storm!

10 THINGS YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT ALICIA VIKANDER

1. As part of a January 2016 cover story in Vogue, Alicia went skydiving with her interviewer.

2. Though she's earning acclaim for starring in "The Danish Girl," Alicia is actually Swedish.

3. She's the new face of Louis Vuitton.

4. She likes to party the night away. "I may not be a dancer any more, but I do love a boogie," she says.

5. She slathered herself with sunscreen to be "shiny like a mannequin" to audition for the part of a self-aware robot in "Ex Machina."

6. Before hitting it big in the movies, she worked in a flower shop and also applied to law school.

7. She studied ballet at the Royal Swedish Ballet School, but a series of small injuries ended her ballerina dreams.

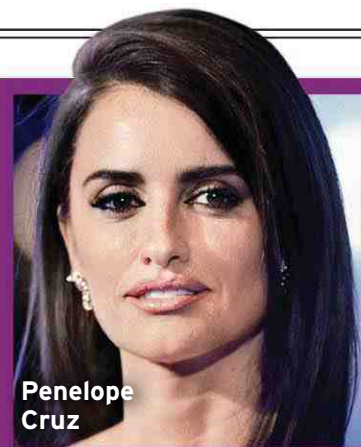

8. "I don't have the best feet," she admits.

9. She's been dating hunky

"X-Men" and "The Light Between Oceans" star Michael Fassbender since 2014.

10. 2012's "Anna Karenina" was her first movie in English.

CRUZ HAS UGLY FEET!

SAVANNAH Guthrie stomped on Penélope Cruz's toes with an awkward question about the actress' "ugly feet" – and Penélope clearly wasn't happy!

The "Today" co-host made her big misstep while chatting with the beautiful actress about her gig in the model-mocking comedy "Zoolander 2"

"I think you said ... despite what you look like, you have ugly feet," she blunders in the clip that quickly went viral on the Internet.

A horrified Penélope quickly denies she said any such thing: "I'm OK with my feet," she insists, citing her past as a dancer.

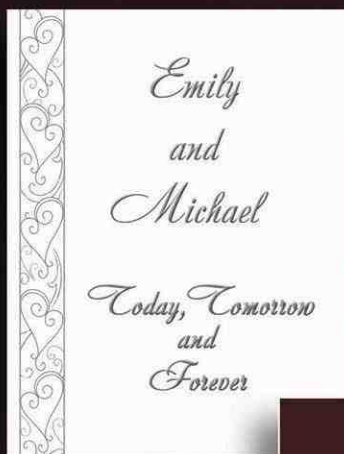

"When you're a ballet dancer, you lose your toenails," she explains. "You get used to throwing them away."

Here's hoping Savannah won't get used to removing her foot from her mouth!

TWO men smuggling 20 pounds of pot from Las Vegas to Montana became paranoid while smoking and grew convinced they were being followed by undercover cops!

Driving through Rexburg, Idaho, in early 2015, they parked their car and called 911 to ask police to stop following them.

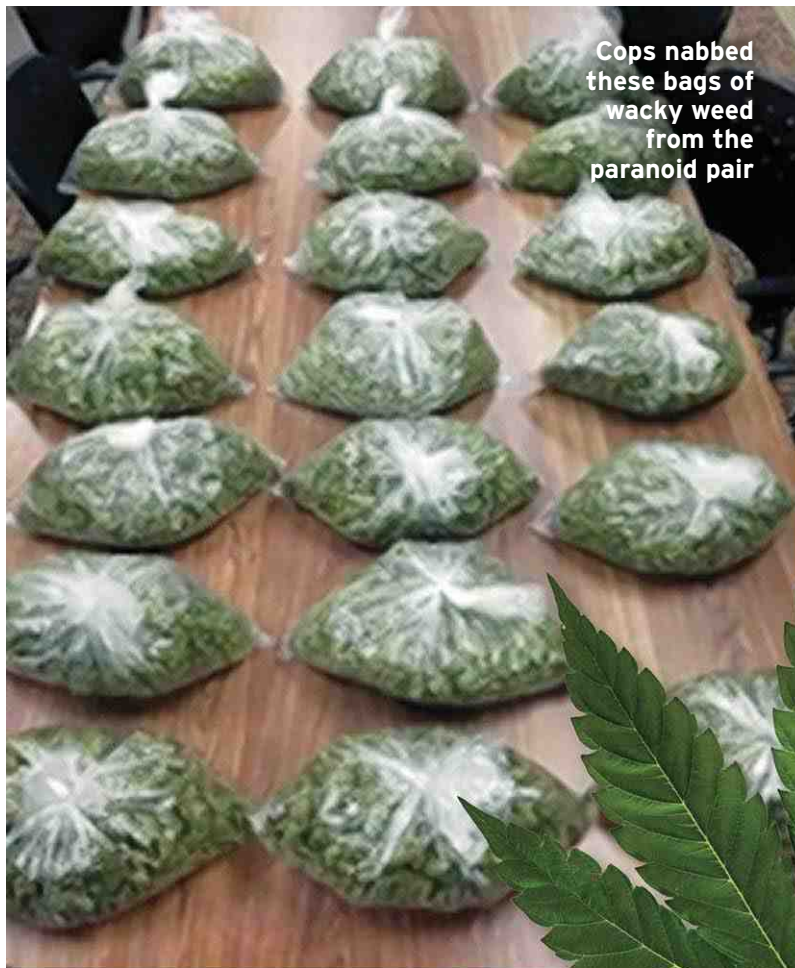

During the 911 call, the dispatcher asks, "You got caught doing what?"

The suspect, Leland Ayala-Doliente replies, "Ahh ... okay. Um ... We kind of got spooked here trying to bring some stuff across your Idaho border."

Cops came to arrest them.

Holland Sward, 23, got five years of probation while Ayala-Doliente, 22, was hit with a sentence that could have him serve eight years!

Cops say the duo wasn't exactly selling Scooby-snacks in this lunchbox!

RUH-OH! South Carolina potheads Brittany Robinson, 26, and Trenton Simmons, 20, were busted just 50 feet from an elementary school after cops found their stash inside a Scooby-Doo lunch box!

Police say the box contained more than four ounces of marijuana, 10 glass pot pipes and a bag with pipes and hash residue. Both men denied ownership of the lunch box. Cops noted that Simmons wept when they found the container in 2014.

Kilch, 36, told a responding officer she "called the police because she was buying marijuana and was

But the dissatisfied customer got in trouble for repeated 911 calls and was booked in 2015 for marijuana possession!

TRAGIC
TEEN

Desperate Conrad Roy III was depressed and miserable — and his girlfriend egged him on to die

IN COURT

The dead boy's grandmother weeps as she hears the shocking evidence

17 year-old Michelle sent texts to the teen encouraging him to 'finish the job'

MONSTER TEEN
busted
for driving troubled boyfriend
to suicide
- cops charge

HEARTLESS!

TWISTED teen Michelle Carter cruelly drove her 18-year-old boyfriend to suicide — even egging him on during a phone call as he slowly died of carbon monoxide poisoning, charge prosecutors.

In chilling text messages recovered by police, 17-year-old Michelle later confessed to a girlfriend she could have kept Conrad Roy III from killing himself!

At one point, as Conrad felt the poison working, the youth became fearful of dying and fled his fume-filled truck.

"Like honestly, I could have stopped it," Michelle wrote. "I was on the phone with him and he got out..."

But the Plainville, Mass., monster wrote she told the reluctant boy "to get back in" and finish killing himself.

Now the heartless teen has been charged with manslaughter in the boy's July 12, 2014 suicide.

He was found dead in a K-Mart parking lot, killed by fumes from a gas-powered pump he installed in his truck.

Her trial in juvenile court was postponed when her attorneys filed an appeal to the state Supreme Judicial Court claiming she can't be tried for manslaughter because all she did was talk to Roy. A hearing is slated for May.

"This is clearly just speech," says her lawyer Joseph Cataldo. "There was no physical action taken by Michelle."

But prosecutors charge the icy-hearted brunette brain-washed Roy, who she only met a few times during their mostly Internet-based relationship.

Learning he was depressed, she convinced him suicide was his best option, lawmen say.

"She told him he was 'strong' enough to execute his suicide plan and would be happy once he was dead," say prosecutors.

Texts showed the teen accusing him of "always" seeming "to have an excuse."

Ironically, Michelle seems to know her act was criminal.

After Roy's death, she texted a pal if cops "read my messages with him I'm done...I can go to jail."

Prosecutors intend to make her prediction to come true.

I just want to make sure you're being serious. Like I know you are, but I don't know. You always say you're gonna do it, but you never do. I just want to make sure tonight is the real thing.

When are you gonna do it? Stop ignoring the question

GWYNETH QUILTS HOLLYWOOD IN STALKER HORROR!

Terrified Paltrow weeps as L.A. jury sets NUT CASE free

FEARFUL and tearful Gwyneth Paltrow is fleeing Tinseltown after a troubled fan accused of stalking her was allowed back on the streets!

The 43-year-old "Shakespeare in Love" Oscar winner decided the well-being of her daughter, Apple, 11, and son, Moses, 9, and her own peace of mind were more important than her screen career, sources say.

"All Gwyneth cares about is the safety of her kids and herself," concedes a source.

"She knows that being in the spotlight is the reason they are at risk.

"She doesn't need the money from movies or TV. She has lots of other projects, like running her Goop website, that won't bring her to the attention of obsessed creeps."

Sources add the blonde beauty's drastic decision came after an L.A. court acquitted Dante Soiu, 66, of stalking her.

At the trial, weeping Gwyneth testified the Columbus, Ohio, creep recently bombarded her with 66 letters and packages.

"I'm scared," the ex-wife of Coldplay rocker Chris Martin told the jury. "I'm a single mother with two children. I don't know what to do at this point. I'm very concerned."

Soiu stalked Gwyneth for years

In a previous 2000 stalking case, Soiu sent the actress chilling death threats, sex toys and marriage proposals.

But sleazy Soiu beat that rap by claiming he was insane — and got tossed in the nut house for six years!

At his most recent trial, he claimed his new messages to Paltrow were pleas for forgiveness — and the jury bought it.

"That's why after nearly two decades of being unable to sleep at night because of him she has decided enough is enough and will now quit Hollywood," says the source.

SEX, DRUGS & ROCK'N'

Guitar goddess Lita dishes on bedding Bon Jovi, Van Halen & Richie Sambora

HEAVY metal diva Lita Ford is lucky to be alive after enduring deadly drugs, rough sex, an ocean of booze and killer crabs!

In a shocking new tell-all, "Living Like a Runaway," the flamboyant guitar goddess dishes on her reckless romps with the likes of Jon Bon Jovi, Eddie Van Halen and an army of other hard rockers!

Joan Jett's ex-bandmate sums up her raucous '80s night with Jon Bon Jovi, guitarist Richie Sambora, keyboardist Aldo Nova and her best pal Toni as "holy s*!"

After a night of clubbing, the group stumbled back to Lita's hotel room, cracked open wine bottles — and shed their clothes! Lita and Jon canoodled for a while, but when the future "Bed of Roses" singer threw up in a corner, generous Toni let Lita borrow Richie!

"Richie is the king of swing, I must say," writes Lita, now 57. "Jon recovered from puking and Aldo finally made his way into the action, and it turned into girl-on-guy fun at the Broadway Plaza Hotel."

That wild night is just a taste of life with Lita, who first rocketed to stardom at 16 with Joan Jett in The Runaways.

Groomed by creepy rock legend Kim Fowley, the all-girl group quickly got swept up in the L.A. club scene. Sleazy Kim would tell the five-member band things like "you have to think with your p**."

"That was the tame side of Kim Fowley," Lita writes.

The Runaways started opening for bands like Rush and Cheap Trick — as Lita carved notches on her bedpost.

Deep Purple's Ritchie Blackmore was a frequent friend with benefits. The Who bassist John Entwistle was freaked out by the bruises that covered her body. Dee Dee Ramone gave her crabs. And Eddie Van Halen once climbed out a tiny bathroom window

after they were caught in bed by one of her other lovers!

He'd "managed to squeeze his body through that window, scraping up his entire stomach," writes Lita.

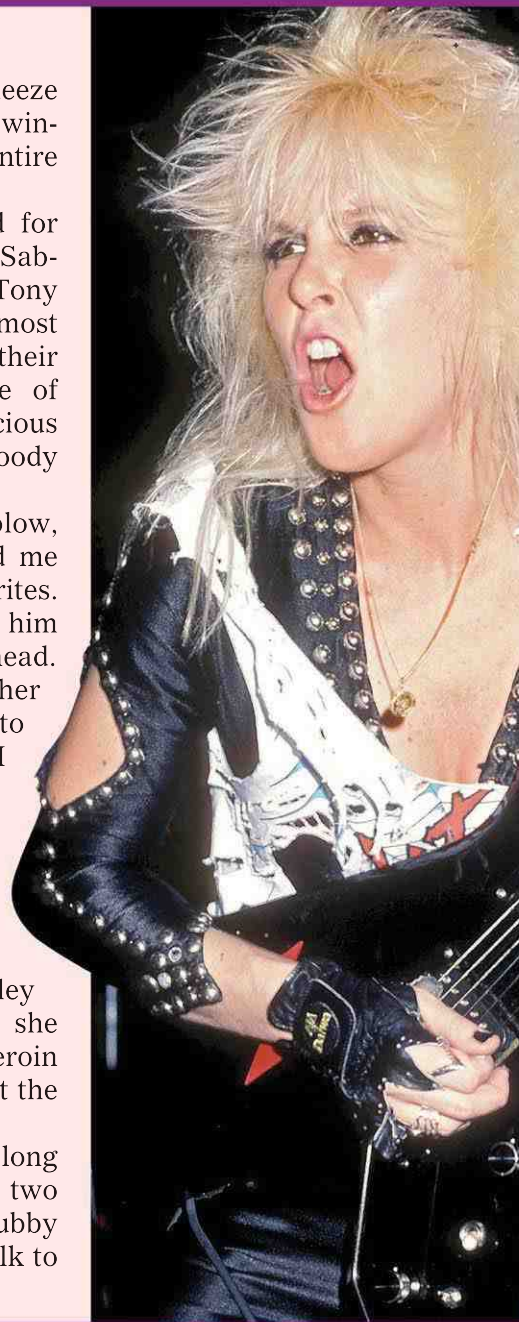

Sadly, Lita fell hard for her musical idol, Black Sabbath's guitar player Tony Iommi. One of her most explosive claims is that their relationship was a cycle of dangerous drugs and vicious abuse — he'd punch her bloody with no provocation.

"After snorting tons of blow, he got angry and choked me unconscious," she writes. "When I woke up, I saw him holding a chair above my head. It was a big, heavy leather chair... and he was about to smash it over my face. I rolled over, and luckily I moved fast enough that he missed me and the chair smashed into the ground."

Lita fled to the home of her ex-boyfriend, Mötley Crüe's Nikki Sixx, who she says found her some heroin to take the pain away! But the rock queen STILL suffers!

She divorced after a long marriage that gave her two sons. However, her ex-hubby AND her kids refuse to talk to her!

CRITICS call it "cruel and unusual punishment."

Supporters call it "justice!"

A subject of deep-seated passions, the death penalty continues to be a point of controversy with every new execution.

A recent spate of overturned verdicts have revealed cracks in our system of justice — a deeply troubling concern for capital punishment critics, who are quick to point out executed men can't appeal.

But, as supporters of the penalty note, death sentences send a powerful message to uphold the laws of our society.

In cases involving terrorists, murderers and pedophiles, supporters say execution is an appropriate sentence for horrific crimes!

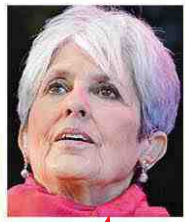

America is one of 58 countries that kills criminals, while 97 countries have outlawed the practice.

What do you think? Is the death penalty a fatally flawed sentence that should be struck from the books, or a necessary and deserved form of justice?

WARNING

ELECTRIC BRUSHES CAN RUIN YOUR TEETH

If you're making dental appointments for bleeding gums, eroding enamel or even fillings that are falling out — it could be your electric toothbrush!

A study published in the Journal of Clinical Periodontology states that electric toothbrushes can permanently damage teeth and gums because most people don't know how much pressure to apply.

"I'm seeing an increasing number of patients with abrasion cavities and gum problems after using these powerful electric gadgets in the wrong way," says Dr. Beeta Salek-Haddadi, a cosmetic dentist.

"People are brushing too hard and fast with them and it's causing damage."

And once tooth enamel is gone, it's gone forever!

Professionals recommend patients return to the old-fashioned manual brush, which bends on contact and can easily get into the grooves between tooth and gum.

When you select a new toothbrush, look for one with very soft bristles.

Electric toothbrushes can destroy enamel permanently

The best way to clean your teeth is to use as little pressure as possible, and to move your brush in small, circular movements at a slight angle, half on the gum and half on the tooth.

Cleaning the gum line is vital, as bacteria accumulates and forms deposits.

Happy brushing!

Urine test detects cancer!

+ INCREDIBLY, a new test for prostate cancer can identify the disease by SMELLING it in your urine.

Scientists created the test, which would spare men from the invasive procedures currently used to detect the cancer that affects more than 1 million victims a year.

Inspired by dogs that can smell disease, the test uses a special tool called an Odoreader to measure compounds in urine and show the presence of prostate cancer — which is more treatable when diagnosed early.

Allergy medicine relieves IBS

+ THERE may finally be some help on the way for the millions of Americans suffering from Irritable Bowel Syndrome — thanks to hayfever pills.

Scientists in Belgium have discovered that antihistamines — which are commonly found in allergy pills — can drastically reduce the cramping symptoms of IBS.

The researchers found pain receptors in your gut react in a similar way to skin when sunburnt, and can be treated by reducing histamine levels with traditional hayfever medications.

Cells may replace surgery for bone reconstruction

STEM CELL RESEARCH CURES SKULL DEFORMITIES

SCIENTISTS have found a way to regrow the human skull using newly discovered stem cells – which could mean a brighter future for those affected by injury or deformity.

The discovery by researchers at University of Rochester Medical Center might one day remove the need for facial bone transplants, as bones required could be grown rather than found from donors.

The team spent several years examining a condition called craniosynostosis, a condition that leads to skull deformity in infants. Specifically, they were hoping to find stem-cell therapy for the condition, focusing on the function of a gene named Axin2, and a mutation that causes the deformity in mice.

They found that the Axin2 gene contains stem calls responsible for skull formation and injury repair because it regenerates the skeleton.

The study also suggests that the skeletal stem cells could prove helpful when it comes to fighting bone diseases.

“Our findings demonstrate [Axin2 cells’] true identity as skeletal stem cells with innate capacities to replace the damaged skeleton in cell-based therapy,” according to the research team.

SIMPSON D.A. CAUGHT IN SLEAZY SEX SCANDAL!

Christopher Darden's bitter baby mama says he swaps free legal aid for bedroom romps!

SLAMMED by shocking sex charges from an ex-galpal, married O.J. Simpson prosecutor Christopher Darden has obtained a restraining order — against one of his baby mamas!

Darden, 59, married Marcia Carter after failing to convict O.J. for murder 18 years ago.

The couple have three kids together — but Darden, who heads his own Los Angeles legal firm, Darden & Associates, Inc., also admits to fathering a 2-year-old child with Celia Smith!

Shocking legal documents obtained by GLOBE reveal Celia harassed him for months, and accused him of exchanging legal aid for sex!

But Darden says baby-mama Celia became obsessed with the O.J. trial and sent him emails under the name “Nicole Brown Simpson.”

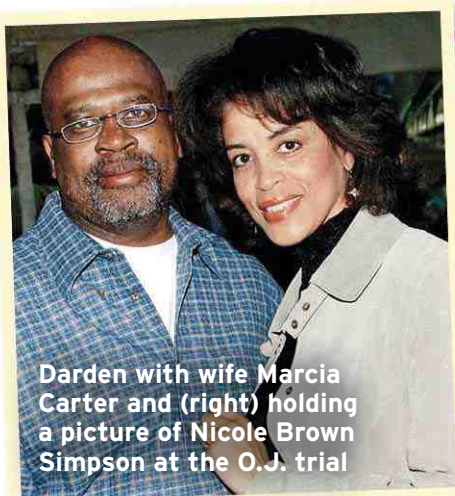

He claims Celia trashed him online with vulgar comments like: “Mr. Darden has sex with his clients. If you don’t have enough money to hire him and you have p* he will take your case.”

Court documents say Celia is angry Darden gave a second baby mama an apartment but didn’t get one for her!

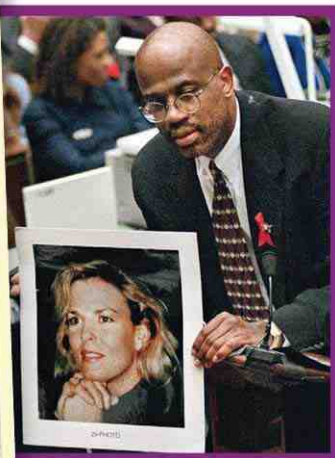

Darden charges Celia tried to smear his reputation by saying he has “7 kids by 7 different women,” and is obsessed with his role in the mini-series “American Crime Story: The People v. O.J. Simpson”!

She refuses to believe he’s not “involved in any way with the show,” say court papers.

The conditions of the restraining order include Smith staying 300 feet away from Darden at all times, and only contacting him for “brief and peaceful” talks when it relates to their child.

INSIDE MONROE'S TWISTED MIND!

SEX goddess Marilyn Monroe was long on curves but short on sanity, according to a new book charging the starlet suffered from “borderline personality disorder.”

“Monroe suffered from severe mental distress,” declares science journalist Claudia Kalb, who studied Marilyn’s medical reports.

Kalb says Marilyn was seriously sick, noting the actress once said she was “never used to being happy.”

The thrice married actress — who spent her childhood shuffling through 12 different foster homes — “yearned for love and stability,” writes Kalb about Marilyn in “Andy Warhol Was a Horder.”

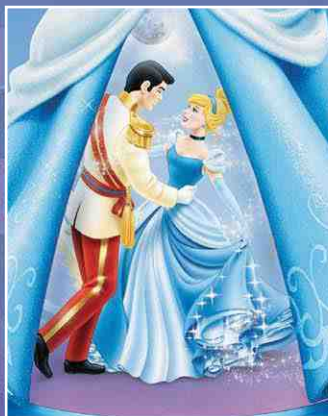

“Her symptoms included a feeling of emptiness, a split or confused identity ... unstable relationships, and an impulsivity that drove her to drug addiction and suicide — all textbook characteristics of a condition called borderline personality disorder.”

Marilyn, 36, was found dead of an overdose in her Los Angeles home in 1962.

RICHARD DREYFUSS

IN THE POOR HOUSE!

EX-ADDICT RETIRED
AND
OF CASH

OSCAR winner Richard Dreyfuss is broke! Sadly, the actor, who starred in some of Hollywood's biggest movies, including "Jaws," "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" and "American Graffiti," confesses he is accepting jobs merely "for the money" for the first time in his career!

"It's a hard thing to admit," he says. "I'm broke."

"I wanted to retire and take my wife on cruises. I can't afford that. I want to be able to go to Europe when I want. I can't."

"I was never good with money. I spent too much and didn't think about the consequences. I was a young, spoiled movie star."

At 30, he won his Best Actor Oscar in 1978 for "The Goodbye Girl" then plunged into a cocaine addiction.

It came to a head in 1982 when he crashed his car into a tree and was busted for DUI — of cocaine AND booze!

He went into drug rehab in 1983 and has waged a life-long battle with manic depression.

He regrets retiring from acting over a decade ago to study at Britain's Oxford University and create the non-profit Dreyfuss Initiative, which promotes civics lessons.

Returning to Hollywood, Dreyfuss, 68, who just played crooked financier Bernie Madoff in an ABC mini-series, had a rude awakening. "I came back — and people said, 'Richard who?' Hollywood has changed. It's been difficult."

Dreyfuss won his Oscar for "The Goodbye Girl" in 1978 but got lost in a blur of cocaine

'BACHELOR' BEAUTY'S TRAGIC SUICIDE!

FORMER "Bachelor" contestant Alexa "Lex" McAllister was rescued after trying to commit suicide — but the blonde beauty was so far gone her heartbroken family was forced to pull the plug.

The 31-year-old reality TV star was rushed to Grant Medical Center in Columbus, Ohio, after a friend, whose name was not released by police, went to check on Lex and found her surrounded by empty prescription pill bottles.

Sources say Lex's body began to shut down soon after she arrived at the hospital. Her relatives decided to take her off life support. She died on Tuesday, Feb. 16.

Lex had struggled with depression and bipolar disorder, according to a family member.

She appeared on Season 14 of "The Bachelor" and competed for the heart of Jake Pavelka, but was eliminated after the first week.

Jake issued a statement, describing McAllister as "a pretty girl," adding, "My prayers are with her friends and family."

COSBY'S SECRET CHEAT JUSTICE!

SEX FIEND Bill Cosby is negotiating a secret plea agreement to avoid prison — or even ADMIT his guilt — after being busted for drugging and sexually assaulting a female basketball star, sources reveal.

Desperate to avoid a 10-year sentence and knowing his goose is cooked, the arrogant 78-year-old has reached out to prosecutors in Montgomery County, Pa., to try to cut an outrageous settlement that would cheat justice, insiders say.

Under the deal, the scheming serial sex predator, now facing three felony charges of aggravated indecent assault, would enter a no contest plea to lesser charges such as “unwanted attention,” a top legal expert notes.

WORLD

An insider tells GLOBE Cosby’s desperate ploy came after he lost a Feb. 3 court fight to have the case against him quashed. His team argued a district attorney had granted Cosby blanket immunity for his actions in 2005 and pledged never to prosecute him. The loss was a slap in the face for the smug star.

Says a source, “Bill Cosby doesn’t want to die behind bars. He ordered his lawyers to cut a deal. But publicly he’s acting just as cocky as ever.

He told them he wants the best plea bargain imaginable and it should involve zero jail time and exclude probation.”

Cosby, who played beloved Dr. Cliff Huxtable on “The Cosby Show,” was arrested Dec. 30 and charged with the sex offenses following a 2004 attack at his suburban Philadelphia mansion.

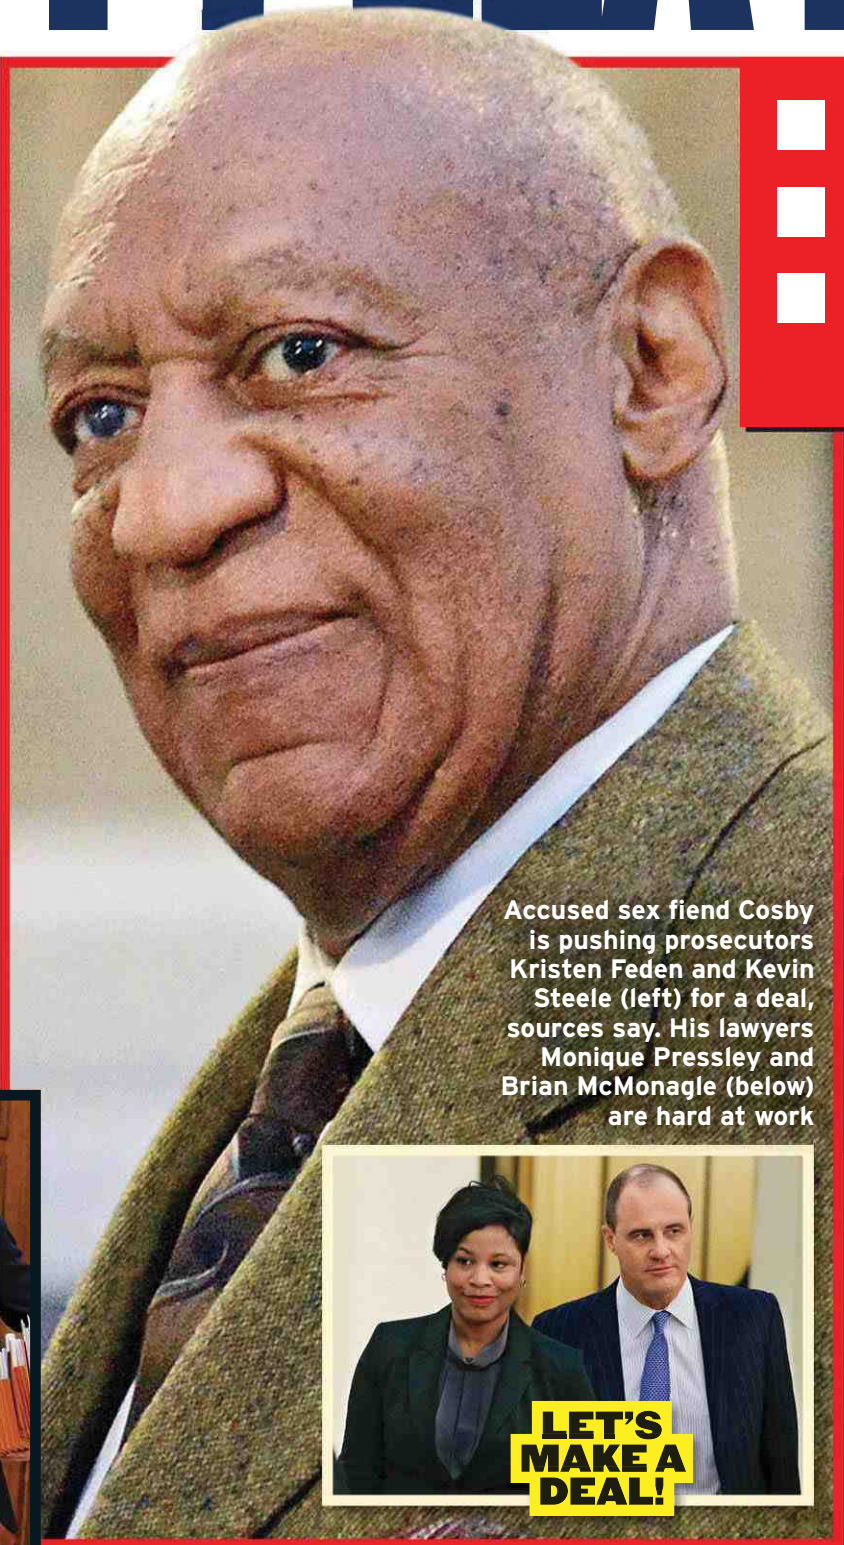

Andrea Constand, a then-31-year-old Temple University athletic department staffer, charges the comedian, then 67, drugged and sexually assaulted her after she’d gone to his home for career advice only to find herself alone with the sicko predator. After his arrest, Cosby, a Temple grad, was released on $1 million bail as he awaits trial.

Flanked by his security team, smirking Cosby (left) made court appearance. He’s terrified of landing in prison on charges of attacking Andrea Constand (above)

Former Boston prosecutor Wendy Murphy, now a victims' advocate, tells GLOBE, "It's no surprise that he thinks he's entitled to a plea bargain. Remember, this is a guy who thinks he has a 'right' to DRUG and RAPE unconscious women!

"Allegations from up to 50 women have been leveled against him for decades, and until now he's always managed to brush them off," says Wendy. "Yet as his trial date gets ever closer, and knowing that the prosecution has an iron-clad case against him, it's finally dawned on him that he's likely to spend his last days in a stark prison cell.

"The judge's decision hit Cosby like a ton of bricks," the ex-prosecutor notes. "Up until then, he'd convinced himself his fame, power and wealth meant there would be no chance that he'd end up in a prison jumpsuit. But now he's terrified that's exactly what lies in store for him and that's why he wants no part of a trial.

"Cosby's lawyers are working on a disgraceful deal where he can plead no contest to a charge of unwanted attention, and skate free without serving a day of prison time or getting any probation," says Wendy.

"That's the kind of 'slap on the hand' punishment some stalker might get for repeatedly contacting a love interest, instead of punishing Cosby for being a serial rapist with a long string of victims.

"Cosby wants to avoid being listed on any sexual offender registry, demanding special treatment for his sickening crimes," says Wendy.

"Cosby wants to stick to his bogus story that his horrible 'drug and sex' attack on Constand was a consensual affair.

"He's hoping to get prosecutors to help him with that lie. His lawyers think he can get this sweet deal from prosecutors because Andrea waited a year to report the assault and took money in a civil suit against him.

"They're arguing his age, weakened health and failing eyesight mean any prison time will be a death sentence.

"But there are plenty of old and ailing perverts behind bars doing their time. Cosby doesn't deserve any favors."

Victim advocate Wendy Murphy

KANYE West is either dumb as a brick or a liar.

Come to think of it, he may be both.

The fool who is married to Kim Kardashian posted this on the Internet:

"I write this to you my brothers while still 53 million dollars in personal debt ... Please pray we overcome ... This is my true heart ..."

That's a lot of BS if you ask me. Of course, I don't want to be hasty. He could have lost a bet where he agreed to pay $1 million for every pound of fat in Kim's ass. But somehow I doubt it.

More than likely he's making it up because Kanye can't live without attention.

He married Kim because he was starved for attention.

He tried to bully Taylor Swift because he was starved for attention.

He named his two kids North West and Saint West because he's starved for attention.

He announced he'll run for President because he's starved for attention.

And he asked Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg for $1 billion because he's starved for attention.

Please don't be fooled by this publicity-seeking dumbass! By all estimates, he's worth over $100 million. It shows just how far you can go in this world without any talent or brains.

Just ask his wife.

AND ONE MORE THING ...

If you're eating, please put the food down and walk away ... I'm about to bring up Kanye's step-father/mother-in-law Bruce "Caitlyn" Jenner.

Brucie was just photographed at a pre-Grammy party in Beverly Hills wearing a black dress held together on top by clips.

Anyone looking at Brucie could easily see he decided to go braless that night.

Believe me Brucie, it was a lot more than we wanted to see ... a whole LOT MORE!

And don't forget ... just the other night he showed up at an event wearing the SAME dress as his daughter, Kendall.

But thankfully, at least that dress covered his boobs.

That's all for this week, friends. Let me know what you think!

"It appears that MJ saw the absurdity and humor of life, because this picture is clown-like, with the clown's world on a stage...The dual faces suggest that while he's performing in the real world, there's another persona inside. They both look alike here, except that one is wearing lipstick and the other is not. This suggests the two different genders."

"While we don't know whether these are self-portraits, everything we create has a piece of ourselves in it. It appears that MJ envisioned a person as being a combination of each gender. Yet, inside the masculine persona is a third, as perhaps a mix of the two."

WHAT THE SHRINK THINKS

MAN IN THE MIRROR!

NEWLY discovered drawings by Michael Jackson reveal the King of Pop was a twisted genius on the page as well as the stage!

Jackson, who died in 2009, used charcoal, pastels and more to sketch everyone from Princess Diana to the Beatles.

But he saved his most creative strokes for his off-the-wall drawings with gender-bending themes — including a shocking multi-faced being with male and female sexual characteristics!

The artwork is owned by former private eye Joseph McBratney, who is putting more than 100 drawings by the Gloved One up for auction to raise funds for his Florida drug rehab center — and they're also raising eyebrows!

GLOBE contacted noted psychotherapist and author Dr. Gilda Carle to discuss Jacko's shocking images — which are valued at over $100 million according to McBratney.

Dr. Gilda confirmed the images reveal a lot about "Michael Jackson's persona."

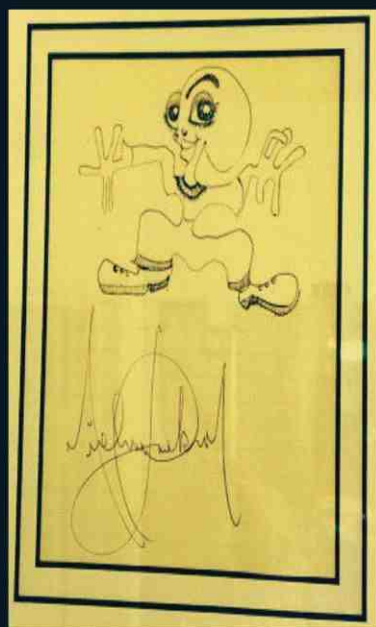

But Dr. Gilda cautions against calling Michael conflicted. "Maybe he felt very comfortable slipping in and out of both genders," she says. "This is the requirement of any performer — to be able to go in and out of different characters. It may have served him very well!"

As to whether he was gay or straight, "maybe he wasn't either/or. Maybe he had both of those qualities within him," says Dr. Gilda.

"A double face, suggesting this person has two sides to him (or her) ... The nose is concealed on both of these. MJ's nose raised continued controversy, so perhaps just covering it up was a way to put the matter to rest."

"This picture appears like a fun-loving, performing court jester with no gender identity. ... Baldness can signify a baby and all its innocence. When things become burdensome for most people, crawling back to childhood could seem like a great escape."

Undercover civilians go behind bars in "60 Days In"

One prison newbie quickly topped the jail's hit list!

PRISON BECOMES THE NEW REALITY!

FORGET "Orange Is the New Black" — a new A&E reality series called "60 Days In" is sending average Joes and Janes to the slammer!

In the jaw-dropping new docu-series, seven civilians agree to spend two months at Indiana's Clark County Jail — and have their experiences recorded on camera.

"We wanted to create a show that really shows what it is like to do time, from a perspective that hadn't been seen before," explains executive producer

Gregory Henry.

And the insider view is like a punch in the face — literally: One civilian dropped out of the show after being walloped by a real inmate!

Trouble lurks around every corner, since real inmates and guards weren't told the newbies were fakes. The innocents are constantly monitored, given a safe phrase — "I really miss the coffee" — and taught visual cues to ensure they won't land in dangerous situations. But that doesn't guarantee they won't face intimidation, abuse and shakedowns for cash!

Still, Clark County Sheriff Jamey Noel says the experiment is worth the risk, since it has helped his department learn valuable info about the prison system and inmate behavior.

"Normal people that have never gotten in trouble before are going to be blown away by what goes on," says Jamey. "I hope it is a real deterrent."

A&E's "60 Days In" starts at 9 p.m., March 10 — and without one notable former inmate, New Jersey "Housewives" reality diva Teresa Giudice.

TV FACT

The taxi driver who drops Will Smith off in the opening credits of beloved '90s sitcom "The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air" is played by Quincy Jones!

LEVAR GROWS NEW 'ROOTS'

ORIGINAL star LeVar Burton is returning to the "Roots" that made him famous – and this time he won't be in chains!

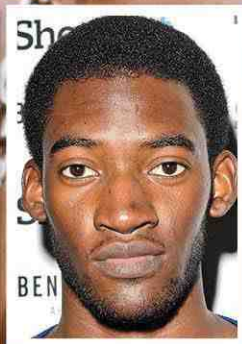

Burton is revamping the harrowing and groundbreaking 1970s miniseries for a new generation, executive-producing a star-studded reboot boasting the likes of Forest Whitaker, Anna Paquin, Jonathan Rhys Meyers, Laurence Fishburne and rapper T.I.

Based on Alex Haley's 1976 book, "Roots" tells the story of Kunta Kinte, who is taken from his home in Gambia in 1767 and enslaved in the U.S. This time around, 26-year-old British actor Malachi Kirby stars as Kunta.

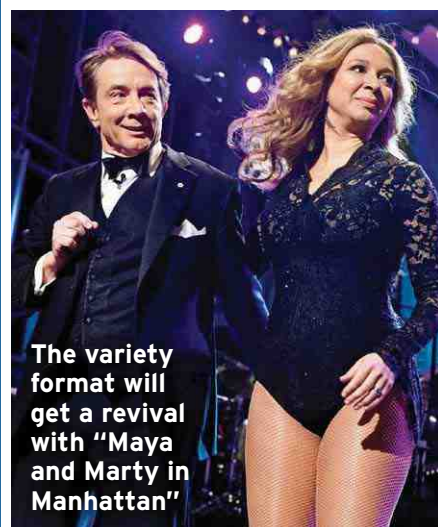

The original 1977 version of the epic series won nine Emmys and a Golden Globe and pulled in a record 140 million total viewers.

"I am incredibly proud to be a part of this new retelling," says LeVar, who played the lead role.

Set to debut on May 30, Memorial Day, the eight-hour drama will span four consecutive nights and simultaneously air on History, A&E and Lifetime.

LeVar Burton (top) starred in the 1977 original. Now he's back as executive producer leading the team behind the new "Roots" includes (from left) Forest Whitaker, Malachi Kirby and rapper T.I.

The variety format will get a revival with "Maya and Marty in Manhattan"

MAYA AND MARTIN BATTLING 'SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE' CURSE!

COMICS Martin Short and Maya Rudolph are hoping to dodge the "Saturday Night Live" curse when their NBC variety show debuts in May!

But the "SNL" alums have a long row to hoe with "Maya and Marty in Manhattan," which will feature musical routines, comedy sketches and superstar guests. Other former members of the "SNL" cast, including Al Franken, David Spade, Dana Carvey and Jane Curtin, have been the leads in total turkeys!

And the variety show style made popular by TV legend Carol Burnett seems to have lost its luster. Neil Patrick Harris' version, "Best Time Ever With Neil Patrick Harris," was a quickly canceled bomb for the Peacock Network. So Maya and Martin are facing long odds – despite their talent!

❶ Who was the youngest person to ever host "Saturday Night Live"?

❷ What was the name of Ross' pet monkey on "Friends"?

❸ Llanview was the setting for which beloved daytime soap?

ANSWERS

1. Drew Barrymore, at age 7
2. Marcel
3. "One Life to Live"

WWE wrestling fave Daniel Bryan is retiring due to health reasons ... Syfy has renewed "The Magicians" for a second season ... "Real Housewives of New Jersey" will be back for season 7 ... "Pushing Daisies" creator Bryan Fuller will be helming the new online-only "Star Trek" series ... CBS dropped the ax on "Angel From Hell" ... "Agent Carter" star Hayley Atwell will star in ABC's legal drama "Conviction" ... USA has picked up the "Shooter" series starring Ryan Phillippe.

FINDERS KEEPERS!

Not-so-lucky guy gets bizarre letter from stoner who found lost wallet

A DEJECTED concert-goer who lost his wallet thought he lucked-out when he got a letter about his missing billfold — but his good mood vanished when he realized it was a letter from a THIEF!

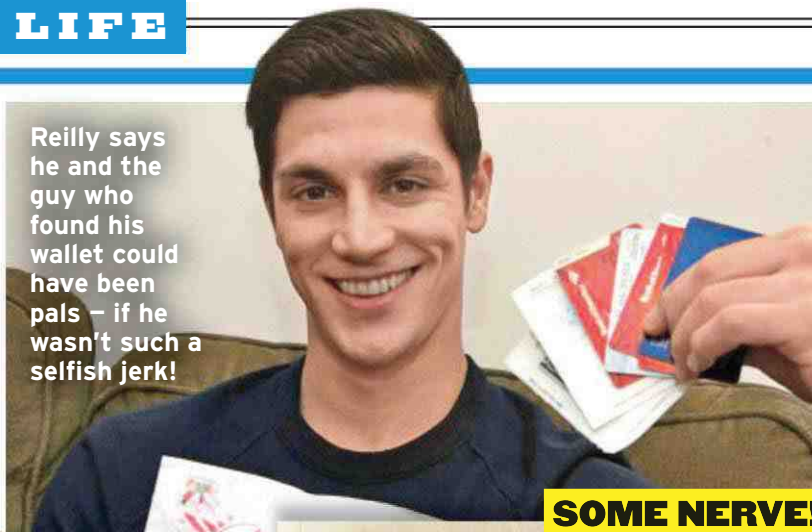

Reilly Flaherty discovered his billfold was missing at a Wilco concert in Brooklyn, N.Y.

About two weeks later, he received a plain, white envelope in the mail containing his credit cards and driver's license.

At first, Reilly, 28, burst out laughing, but grew furious after realizing something was missing — his wallet and his cash!

"I found your wallet and your driver's license had your address, so here's your credit cards and other important stuff," reads the hand-scrawled

Reilly says he and the guy who found his wallet could have been pals — if he wasn't such a selfish jerk!

SOME NERVE!

Dear Reilly Flaherty
I found your wallet and your drivers license had your address so here's your credit cards and other important stuff. I kept the cash because I needed weed, the metrocard because well the fare's $2.75 now, and the wallet cause it's kinda cool. enjoy the rest of your day. Toodles letter.

"I quickly went from being hysterical to, like, this guy is selfish," says Reilly, adding he had written off the wallet until he got the bizarre letter — which reads like a stoner joke.

"I kept the cash because I needed weed, the (subway) MetroCard because, well, the fare's $2.75 now, and the wallet 'cause it's kinda cool," confessed the thief. "Enjoy the rest of your day."

Reilly, a salesman, says the thief also kept a shoe-shine punch card and a $10 Barnes & Noble gift certificate.

"I open it up and sure enough, it's just the credit card and pretty much everything that's of no value to me," says Reilly, who thinks he and the thief could have been friends had things gone differently.

"I would say, 'Man, we would've gotten along — we're both into Wilco — but you turned out to be super selfish.'"

THE SOUTH SHALL RISE AGAIN!

IN THE Feb. 22 issue, we asked GLOBE readers: Should symbols of the Confederacy be torn down?

And the South rose up again — from all over the country!

Readers flooded us with votes in favor of keeping tributes to the Confederacy standing — reminding us not to erase history!

"I believe the symbols of the South should be left alone," says a California voter. "They are a part of our American history!"

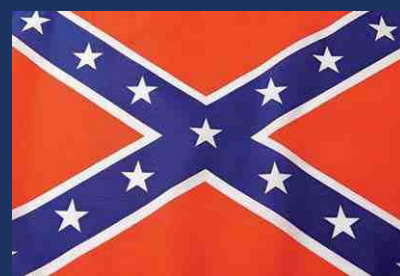

"NO! Young black children need to learn what people had to do to finally be free," reads a text from Wisconsin.

But one Georgia voter in the minority says, "All symbols across the world indicating racist roots should be torn down forever. Peace."

One Maryland text writer ended her vote with some inspiring thoughts about the sensitive issue:

"You can't change or erase history, you are suppose to learn and grow from it ... and change for the better."

The final results:
YES (TEAR DOWN): 12%
NO (LEAVE UP): 88%

SEAL BEGS HEIDI: KLUM BACK TO ME!

Things were tense between the pair at a bash before their divorce

Singer decides he can't live without baby mom 3 years after ugly divorce

HEARTBROKEN Seal is pleading for one last chance with ex-wife Heidi Klum after getting dumped by his latest girlfriend!

For seven months, the Grammy Award-winning singer dated Erica Packer, the sizzling ex-wife of Australian billionaire James Packer — who is now engaged to Mariah Carey.

"Seal is nursing a broken heart," says an insider.

"Since Erica left him, Seal has been flooding Heidi with emails and phone calls, begging her to take him back.

"He's pulling out all of the stops to win Heidi's heart again and put their family back together."

The British-born singing sensation desperately tried to woo back the mother of his daughters Leni and Lou and sons Henry and Johan by sending her four dozen red roses on Valentine's Day.

Seal, 53, has been "trash-talking" 42-year-old Heidi's much younger art dealer boyfriend, Vito Schnabel, 29, says the insider.

"Seal is making a case that he's a much better match for Heidi than Vito."

Despite a nasty 2014 divorce tainted by cheating charges,

Seal now says he will always love Heidi, revealed the source.

After a great deal of soul-searching, the singer confessed to pals gorgeous fashion model Heidi is his soulmate!

"Seal has been putting on a full-court press to win Heidi's heart again," says a spy.

"They've had phone conversations, and Seal and Heidi have met up to discuss the possibility of reuniting. But Heidi is definitely going to make Seal grovel before she makes any firm decisions about the future of her love life."

Heidi's now dating much younger Vito Schnabel

MAFIA SECRETS BIG ANG TOOK TO GRAVE

"MOB Wives" star Angela "Big Ang" Raiola lost her battle with lung and brain cancer, but kept the Mafia's bombshell secrets to the bitter end!

The 55-year-old hard case joined "Mob Wives" because her uncle Salvatore "Sally Dogs" Lombardi, was a captain in New York's Genovese crime family. The tough-living mom of two dated "wise guys" and managed Mob hangouts for a living.

"As a Mafia moll, Ang became like one of the guys," says a street-savvy insider.

"She was loved by them all and lived by the code of silence. She never ratted or squealed. Big Ang was a standup guy - even though she was a woman. She took her secrets to the grave."

FLASHBACK

THE THREE AMIGOS

ELIZABETH TAYLOR, her producer-hubby MIKE TODD and DEBBIE REYNOLDS were good pals when Liz and Mike scooped up Golden Globe Awards in February 1957. Tragically, Todd, who won the award of his epic flick "Around the World in 80 Days," died at age 48 in a plane crash just a year later. Debbie's singer-hubby Eddie Fisher went to comfort Liz and fell for her. By the end of 1959, he'd divorced Debbie and wed Liz, who promptly dumped love cad Fisher for Richard Burton in 1963. Fortunately, the unsinkable Debbie – GLOBE's former advice columnist – and the "Cleopatra" star made up before Liz died in 2011.
